A WyldLife weekend for middle school kids is coming up! If your son or daughter wants to participate, you may be wondering “What is the Purpose? Who is behind it?” and so on.

Like all parents, you have high expectations for your children. You want them to be successful in life and prepared for the challenges they will face in the future. You want them to become men and women with ideals and definite goals in life.

Through personal relationships, we seek to assist individuals making their way in a confusing world. We are available to serve kids’ needs and communicate the Christian faith in terms that they can understand. Our aim is to provide resources and an atmosphere in which kids can make intelligent decisions for themselves.

If you would like to talk to a Young Life leader or Committee representative in your community, we will gladly answer any questions. Responsible, mature leaders will be involved with your kids in a well-planned program for the entire weekend. Staff, Leaders, and Committee are listed on the back of this brochure.
